This lovely house lies in the north of the island close to Puntagorda. You can reach the house by driving through a beautiful cypress alley. The idyllic atmosphere creates a foretaste of the house. The view over the Atlantic Ocean from the gorgeous garden and the terraces is amazing and sunsets are an unforgettable experience. The garden, with its incredible and versatile flora, is constructed on various levels. You can find many cosy places to retreat and relax. Especially the sunny places at the pond with its waterlilies are very beautiful. The house has a comfortable atmosphere. The Italian terracotta floors, warm colours, the open roof structure and the lattice windows emphasise the rustic character of the house. The spacious kitchen in cottage style opens up to the living room. A fireplace warms up on cool days and creates a cosy feeling. The two bedrooms are constructed with wooden floors. Gullwing doors open up to the garden from each bedroom. The first floor is temporarily used by
