Round Hill Hotel is one of the most distinguished hotel resorts in the Caribbean. The immaculately kept estate (formerly a pineapple plantation until 1953), situated in a spectacular location on a peninsula, comprises a hotel with 36 rooms and 27 separate villas of which 22 have their own pool. Because of its excellent reputation this unusually beautiful holiday resort has attracted many prominent people - Grace Kelly, Jacqueline and John F. Kennedy, Steven Spielberg, Paul McCartney and Demi Moore, to name only a few. American designer Ralph Lauren was so impressed that he bought a villa. He was also responsible for much of the design and decoration throughout the resort. Parents who bring their children are well catered for. In summer, while adults may indulge themselves in free snorkelling, diving, sailing and windsurfing activities, children can be entertained at the childcare facility. Breakfast is served in the villas, while other meals can be enjoyed either in the hotel restaurant, on the Almond Tree Terrace or in the privacy of your vacation villa. Formal dress is mandatory in the restaurant and for official hotel occasions. Breakfast, half or full Board or an all-inclusive package can be booked.
